This course is designed to be used as an individual instructional study guide, as well as a class learning tool. Each lesson should take approximately 30 - 45 minutes long including teaching and practice time. Not everyone will progress at the same pace. It is advised to repeat or come back to a lesson so as to reinforce certain concepts.

This Eb adaptation book is designed to be used in group scenarios where instruments are in different keys. For this purpose, all exercises and examples have been transposed and the written wording of notes has also been revised.

Each student should take a placement test before being placed in a level. After a student completes a level, there is a separate final test that should be completed and passed before moving on to the next level. Be sure you have these materials.

In addition, the Brass Course is designed as a companion to the Music Theory course. Students should utilize the music theory books to help advance their knowledge of music making.

Review of Level 2

Before we start Level 3, let's take a look at some of the material we learned in Level 2. All of these concepts will be considered general knowledge throughout this level. Make sure you understand these concepts while reading music before moving ahead.

Lesson Reminders:

In this level, you will no longer see the fingerings (slide positions) labeled underneath. From time to time, there will be a new note introduced and a fingering (slide position) will be given as needed. If you are struggling to remember note names and fingerings (slide positions), you can pencil them in. Remember that you need to work toward knowing them instantly.

Lesson 3.1 – Eighth Notes and Rests

So far, we've learned about three different values for notes and rests.

- Whole note = 4 beats
- Half note = 2 beats (2 half notes = 1 whole note)
- Quarter note = 1 beat (4 quarter notes = 1 whole note)

Now, let's look at the eighth note  and eighth rest .

- An eighth note = $\frac{1}{2}$ beat (8 eighths = 1 whole note)

Eighth notes are half the length of quarter notes, which are half the length of half notes, which are half the length of whole notes. Remember that the value of each note is the same as the rest with the same name and value. This means that both an eighth note and an eighth rest are half a beat.

One eighth note by itself

Two eighth notes connected by a beam

Eighth rest

As the notes get faster, tonguing becomes more of a challenge. Be sure to use only the tip of your tongue to articulate. Let the air stream do all of the work. Think about the rhythm rather than the effort. Notice below that there is a shorter "to" for the eighths to signal using a crisper point of the tongue.

The third measure contains a quarter note on the second line. The fourth measure contains two eighth notes on the second line. The fifth measure contains a quarter note on the second line. The sixth measure contains two eighth notes on the second line. The seventh measure contains a quarter note on the second line. The eighth measure contains two eighth notes on the second line. The ninth measure contains a quarter note on the second line. The staff ends with a double bar line.

Let's practice

Since eighth notes get half the value of quarter notes, we have to count a little bit differently to properly time each note. To count in eighth notes, we say "1 and 2 and 3 and 4 and." Instead of writing out the word "and," let's use the + sign.

Try counting these practice examples out loud before playing them.

a) Moderato

1 2 3 4 1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 1 2 3 4 1 + 2 + 3-4

1 2 3 4 1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 1 2 3 4 1 + 2 + 3-4

The goal is to have even beats (1-2-3-4) all remain at the same speed like a clock. The + (and) fits in between those numbers.

Lesson 3.2 – Ties, Slurs and Dotted Notes

Ties

In music, a tie is a small curved line that joins together two notes of the same pitch. When this happens, the sound is held for the total value of all notes combined.

Notice that the tie (the line itself) is always placed opposite to the direction of the note's stem.

Slurs

In music, a slur is a small curved line that joins together two (or more) notes of a different pitch. When playing or singing notes joined by a slur, we move smoothly from one note to the next.

As with ties, the line is placed opposite of the stem direction.

Dotted Notes

When we use a tie, we make the note longer. For example, if you tie a half note to a quarter note, you get 3 beats. Another way to make a note longer is to use a dotted note (by placing a dot in the space after the note).

For example:

In the first measure, a half note is tied to a quarter note, and in the second measure there is a dotted half note. Although they look different, they are the same length (3 beats)!

Here is another example of how a dotted note can be used:

When you put a dot after a note, you add half the length of the original note. For example, for a dotted half note you would add half of a half note (i.e. a quarter note) which equals 3 beats total. This same rule applies for rests.

Note: Dotted notes help us avoid writing too many ties in music. However, there are occasions where you must use ties instead of dotted notes. One example is when you want a note to be held across a bar line, such as from bar 1 to 2:

Let's practice

As we practice dotted notes and ties, try to always maintain a constant pulse by counting in your head. Even on long notes, it is important to be counting either in quarter notes or eighth notes. This is called subdividing.

Lesson 3.3 – Dynamic and Tempo Changes

Dynamics

Sometimes composers want dynamics to change gradually. This is achieved by using a crescendo and a diminuendo (also called decrescendo). They look like this:

When we crescendo (cresc.), we gradually get louder. When we diminuendo (dim.), we gradually get softer. The crescendo or diminuendo should go to the next marked dynamic. If there is no dynamic marked, go one dynamic level up or down.

Tempo

Just like dynamics, tempo can also be changed gradually.

When the music gradually becomes faster, it is referred to as an accelerando. When written above the staff, it is often shortened to accel.

When the music gradually becomes slower, it is referred to as a rallentando. When written above the staff, it is often shortened to rall.

This is what it looks like to see an accelerando and rallentando in a piece of music. Notice how the music speeds up to Allegro and slows down at the end to Moderato.

Let's practice

Be aware of your starting and finishing volume when practicing crescendos and diminuendos.

Moderato

a) Musical notation for exercise a) consists of two staves in treble clef, 4/4 time, with a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The first staff contains four whole notes: F#4, C#5, G#4, and F#4. The second staff contains four whole notes: F#4, C#5, G#4, and F#4. Crescendos and diminuendos are indicated by lines with arrows above the notes. The first pair of notes (F#4 to C#5) has a crescendo from p to f. The second pair (C#5 to G#4) has a diminuendo from f to p. The third pair (G#4 to F#4) has a crescendo from p to f. The fourth pair (F#4 to F#4) has a diminuendo from f to p.

Lesson 3.4 – Scales B \flat , E \flat , C, D

In Level 2, we learned three scales (C, B \flat and D). Let's tackle four more major scales, remembering to look carefully at the accidentals (or key signatures). It's very important to have these scales learned and memorized. Don't rush through and be sure to revisit this lesson if you need a refresher.

B \flat Major Scale

B \flat C D E \flat F G A B \flat

1 0 1/3 2/3 1 0 1/2 1

E \flat Major Scale

E \flat F G A \flat B \flat C D E \flat

2/3 1 0 2/3 1 0 1 2

Before playing the C major scale, make sure you are mindful of your breathing and air support. The more challenging part is playing higher notes. Take in low deep breaths.

C Major Scale

C D E F G A B C

0 1/3 1/2 1 0 1/2 2 0

Our next scale, D major, has the highest note we have learned so far (Not applicable for E \flat instruments). Focus on speeding up the air and taking in deep breaths. Do not put extra pressure on your embouchure. If you feel tension, back off and relax. It will take time to develop your ability to play higher notes with ease.

D Major Scale

Let's see how these scales look with a key signature. It is important to know how many flats or sharps are in each major scale.

E \flat Major Scale

B \flat Major Scale

Key Signature

Time Signature

At the beginning of a piece of music, the key signature signals what notes are to be played flat or sharp in all octaves.

Sometimes the key signature can change during a piece of music. The only thing that can eliminate or cancel the key signature is an accidental or a key signature change.

These are the seven key signatures we have learned thus far.

Let's practice

The majority of these exercises will help you improve your ability to read key signatures and will allow you to become more comfortable with the new scales.

a) Moderato

Exercise a) is a scale exercise in 4/4 time, C major, marked Moderato. It consists of four staves. The fourth staff shows the descending scale: B2-A2-G2 (quarter), F2-E2-D2 (quarter), C2 (quarter), B1-A1-G1 (quarter), F1-E1-D1 (quarter), C1 (quarter), B0-A0-G0 (quarter), and a whole rest.
